

YESTERDAYS...

A brief glance back at the lives and lifestyles of Australian women.

Marriage has always been a subject to get magazine readers writing, as this 1930s letter shows: "If marriage licences had to be earned in the same manner as motor licences, there would be a minimum of divorces. Young men and women take over the most exacting task of life without the slightest knowledge of first aid, dietetics, economics, or elementary psychology. Both parties should study for their licences."
